Settle in with refreshments in a double feature of "The Call of the Entrepreneur" (2007) and the 2013 film "The Startup Kids." "The Call of the Entrepreneur" tells the story of a banker, a dairy farmer, and a refugee from Communist China who beat the odds to build successful businesses, and how the way we view entrepreneurs shapes our lives and the world we live in. "The Startup Kids" gets up close and personal with some of the greatest young entrepreneurs of our time, including the founders of founders of Vimeo, Soundcloud, and Dropbox. Made by two Icelandic entrepreneurs who founded their first company shortly after the economic collapse of Iceland, "The Startup Kids" is an insider's look into what it takes to make it even when everyone is telling you it is impossible.
