Staff SPOTLIGHT

Robert Jenkins

Reference Librarian

How long have you worked for TPLS?

I've been with the library since mid-November of 2010.

What do you love most about your job at the library?

I like helping people learn new skills and seeing the look of satisfaction on their faces when they accomplish something they thought they couldn't do when they first walked through our doors. I also enjoy hosting big events like our first-ever Mardi Gras Bash this past February.

Can you tell us some of your favorite library programs?

The Mardi Gras Bash was one of my favorites. I really enjoy the after-hour programs we've recently started hosting for our adult patrons. Our upcoming Stranger Things party is going to be a blast! I also really get a kick out of the performers who come to interact with the kids.

If you could trade places with any superhero for one day, who would you choose and why?

As a tried and true comic book fan for over 30 years, this is a tough question to answer. I guess I'd go with someone like Superman. He has such a wide array of superpowers, including flight, super speed, and super intellect!

What book is next up on your Summer Reading list?

"Matterhorn: A Novel of the Vietnam War" by Karl Marlantes. I read it at least once every year. The plot is heavily influenced by Marlantes' own service as a Marine Rifle Company Lieutenant in Vietnam during the late sixties, and the novel pulls no punches describing the reality of United States Servicemen being "in country" at that time.
